

Suvarna Prabhasottama Dharmasancharam An Invitation

The Sun as the potent symbol of rejuvenation is central to all great mythologies of the world. It emphasises line, texture and movement: the original source of light and inspiration. The Sun cuts through darkness and its rays convey the infinite realm of the primordial unknown. It brings forth the contours of the manifest world. Pravara Sena the 5th century Prakrit Poet; author of the Sethubandha, describes the blooming lotus and its unravelling petals as the essential volition the Sun. The metaphor spreads itself into the word through a mantic nuance while gradually the Lotus becomes the miniature of the Sun. Pravara Sena describes this flowering of the Sun as Suvarnaprabhasottama or the Magnificent Golden Dawn or that which envisages the becoming of Dharma itself. It is to accentuate this spirit that Sadguru Sri Chittibabaji Samsthanam of Sriramanagaram in Seethanagaram Mandal of East Godavari district, Andhra Pradesh has mooted a Ratha Yatra the Suvarnaprabhasottama Dharmasanchaaram.

The Ratha Yatra is to start on the 13th of May, 2013. The divine procession would have a specially built chariot flanked by two spotless white horses while the chariot itself would carry a picture of Lord Sri Rama snapping an arrow. The retinue would be followed by 108 holy cows and 108 votive sculptures of Lord Panduranga personifying the eternal loops of time. The Panchaloha Idol of Sadguru Sri Chittibabaji that is to be consecrated in the temple under construction would be the presiding deity. The convoy would have One Hundred and Eight cloth casketed scrolls of Lord Rama with one hundred and eight billion such divine Ramanamam divine names filled in by devotees. The Ratha Yatra would be hallowed by the chanting of Vedic hymns by 16 Ritwiks, four each from the four Vedas. The Yatra would proceed through 22 districts of Andhra Pradesh covering at least 3 Mandal in each district completing around 10,000 Kilometres in 8 months. The principle aim of the Ratha Yatra is to spread divine consciousness which in turn would establish Sanatana Dharma or the Primordial Order.

The Samsthanam through its social-service wing Parameswara Seva Samithi (PSS) is already involved in various project meant to alleviate the living conditions of people living in the Seethanagaram Mandal. It has already adopted the Mandal from the District administration under the aegis of the District Collector to implement a wide-reaching sanitation program along with several smaller initiatives to raise consciousness on environment protection. Several hundred acres of land are being cultivated through natural farming yielding rice, fruit and vegetables that are being sold through retail lines called Sahaja, in several major cities and towns in Andhra Pradesh. PSS also has pressed into service Kavacham, an emergency medical aid program that involves a round-the-clock-call-in- with a fully equipped ambulance services plying through the Mandal.

The Samsthanam moots several more such programs through the PSS. Sharing and safeguarding the quality of life through well-grounded social activities is a concept that is no lesser degree of spiritual attainment. The Suvarnaprabhasottama Dharmasanchaaram is huge stride to achieve such goal on a much wider scale. The estimated cost of the Dharmasanchaaram is more than 20,000,000 (Two Crores) Indian Rupees. We have reached a deliberated consensus to publish the names of donors and amount credited along with the effect they would like to use the monies towards. This move would commendably scrap misuse rerouting your benevolence. We humbly solicit donations and munificence from the kindred.
